Why PledgeNoHate.tech?

Customers

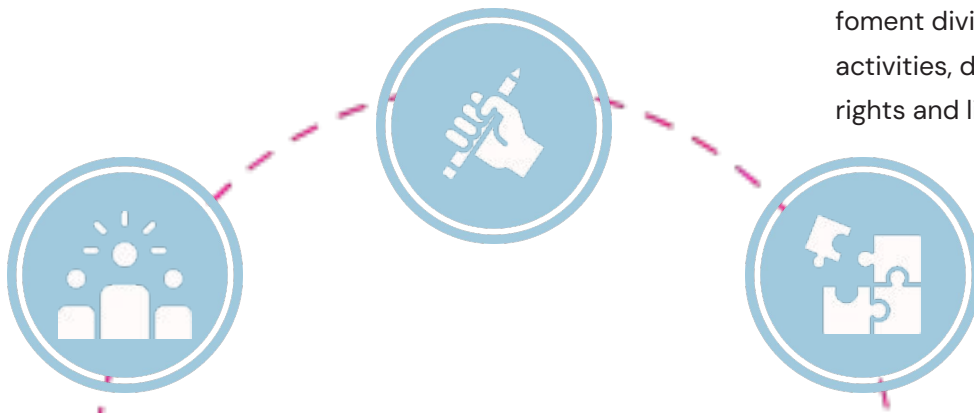

As technology for impact organizations has become both ubiquitous and having relative feature/function parity, these organizations are increasingly looking to technology businesses to lead with values, including demonstrated commitment to Corporate Social Responsibility.

Applications/Services

Businesses providing applications and services to impact organizations are facing market maturity and saturation while seeking means by which to differentiate their offerings from competitors. These same businesses are also seeking affirmative means to support internal culture and staff retention.

Data Platforms

Maintain “agnostic” perspectives on customers acquiring and using their technology. BUT, high-profile (and trust eroding) contradictions have surfaced between how platforms market to impact organizations (and their own staff) and sales of these same technologies to organizations that foment division, anti-democratic activities, discrimination, and take away rights and liberties from others.
